

it is most pleasant not to be jumping up to answer phone calls from these solicitors and the ones who get through I can threaten to report the the no call and know they will be fined. It has really added to my quality of life. as you get older, it is harder and harder to get out of the chair and race across the house. please keep this going